

ALLIED FORCES ADD TO THEIR GAINS ON THE FLANDERS BATTLE FRONT

Attacks by Germans During the Past 24 Hours Have Been Feeble, While French and British Have Surged Forward at Points; American Flyers Bring Down German Plane.

QUIET REIGNS ON THE AMERICAN SECTOR

LONDON, May 1.—French troops last night improved their position in the neighborhood of Loos on the Flanders front, the war office announced. The British rushed German posts in the Meteren sector and took prisoners. The statement follows: "A local attack made by the enemy yesterday upon one of our posts in the neighborhood of St Julien was repulsed by machine gun fire. Posts held by the enemy in the Meteren sector were rushed by our troops during the night and a few prisoners were secured by us. "By a successful minor enterprise carried out last night French troops improved the positions held by them in the neighborhood of Loos."

ENGLISH NEWSPAPERS EXPRESS CONFIDENCE. LONDON, VIA OTTAWA, May 1.—As details of Monday's fighting are received, confirming the fact that it was the worst day the Germans have experienced since the opening of the great offensive the English newspapers, hitherto reticent in view of the fluctuation of the battle, now comment on the operations in a tone of confidence they have not hitherto displayed.

The Times says: "Of all the violent combats witnessed in the last few weeks we know of none which is a more hopeful augury for the allies than this 10-mile German failure." It is pointed out that the public is apt to reckon victory in terms of offensive success but a decisive victory like that of today may contribute equally toward the ultimate object of the campaign, namely destruction of the enemy fighting strength.

KAISER BILL CONTINUES TO BOAST. WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FLANDERS, May 1.—General Von Arnheim made no further move along the Flanders battle front last night nor has an attack been expected. The heavy defeat which the Germans suffered Monday forced them to pause and bring up fresh troops before continuing their drive for the hill positions in the Kemmel region.

The seriousness of the German intentions here has been vindicated in numerous ways. On Monday, for example, they pushed at least one gun to within 700 yards of the battle line and other guns were brought close up.

Emperor William appears to have been an interested and active visitor in the Flanders region yesterday. According to rumors he has been making his usual flamboyant speeches to troops and he stated the other day that the Germans were trying to separate the French and British armies, adding characteristically that the Germans were going to "put the British back in the English channel where they belong."

AMERICAN FLYERS DOWN GERMAN PLANE. WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FLANDERS, May 1.—A German aeroplane was brought down in enemy territory last night by Captain Norman Hall of Colfax, Iowa, and Lieutenant Edward V. Rickenbacher of Columbus, Ohio, after a duel over the American lines on the Toul sector.

The American birdmen first engaged the enemy over the American lines. Lieutenant Rickenbacher, well known as an automobile racer in the United States, swept over the beche de la guerre with his machine gun while Captain Hall formerly member of the Lafayette Escadrille, darted behind the German and also opened fire. The Americans peppered the enemy machine with bullets and drove it down until it fell behind the German trenches.

Captain Hall served as a private in the British army at the outbreak of the war and later joined the French aerial forces. He is the author of "Kitcheners Mob."

QUIET WITH AMERICANS IN NORTH. WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON A FRENCH BATTLE FRONT, May 1.—The situation along the American sector gradually is becoming stabilized. There have been no infantry encounters in the last 48 hours, although small patrol parties or posts have met in the darkness and mist.

Despite rain and poor visibility the American and French artillery have been most active in shelling enemy back areas. The German artillery is less active than on the days immediately following the American appearance on this sector. The Germans are throwing some gas shells. Weather conditions prevent aerial activity on either side.

under the alien property laws and the government is in actual control of operation of 700 plants.

GREAT RED CROSS SUM TRANSFERRED. PARIS, May 1.—The American Red Cross today presented 10,000,000 francs to the committee which is directing the three great French societies for caring for the wounded.

CLEMENCY URGED FOR SOLDIERS UNDER SENTENCE. WASHINGTON, May 1.—There were indications today that President Wilson would make an early decision in the case of the four American soldiers sentenced to death by court martial in France for violation of the articles of war. Two of the men were sentenced for sleeping at their posts and the others for disobedience of drill orders. There has been no hint as to what the President will do but it has been strongly urged that clemency be shown the soldiers.

SCOTSDALE GIRL MAKING GOOD IN FEDERAL EMPLOY

Miss Lena Colborn One of 12 Assigned to Investigate Cost of Living.

Work Thus Far Has Covered Much of the East and the Southern States. Now, After Visit Home, she is Off for Buffalo and Places in the North.

Special to The Courier. SCOTSDALE, May 1.—Among the thousands of young women who have entered the employ of the government for high positions of more importance than Miss Lena Colborn daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Colborn of this place who left last night for Buffalo, N. Y. pursuing her work after a visit at her home here.

Miss Colborn for six years had been stenographer for the H. C. Frick Coke company at their office here. Five years ago she went to Washington, D. C. to enter the National Domestic Science school. After she was in school she was attracted by the Washington positions she obtained a position as stenographer at the Department of Agriculture.

As a non resident of the District of Columbia she can only hold position with the government six months at a time. She next went to the Commerce building here. She at rated Dr. Long worthy who saw she was a clever typist and general talented. At the end of her six months she was taken into the office. To continue in this position Miss Colborn learned she must be a college graduate so she went to Columbia and graduated. She continued at this position until about a year ago when she with three other young women were designated to investigate the cost of living as it pertained to the poor of the District of Columbia. The facts secured during this investigation Miss Colborn was directed to write into a bulletin for publication and it is being printed.

January 1 a party of 12 including Miss Colborn started east to investigate the cost of living as it affects the families of ship builders. The party visited Philadelphia, New York and London, Conn. and then went South. In the east it was found that for the most part the men were being paid more than the average wage. In the south including Texas, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida wages were very poor and living about on a par with the north. Families were large. A large part of the labor was unskilled, requiring extra supervision.

Miss Colborn found the women of the south interested in wheatless and meatless days but they knew little about Liberty Bonds. Their days are all practically meatless, but large quantities of grease and lard are used. The women were courteous and answered all of her 137 questions on the questionnaire. For most part they had no idea of the cost of shoes for a child of a year or clothing either. They live for a day at a time and calculations as to expense mean nothing to them. The party will next work in Buffalo, N. Y.

TWO ARE KILLED, ONE INJURED BY B. & O. FLYER. Body of Young Italian, Missing For Some Time is Drawn Forth.

WOMAN TIPS THE OFFICERS. Comely American, Said to Be Pittsburgher, Prisoner For Months.

SLAYER UNDER ARREST. Most Sensational Homicide Case in County in Years is Being Developed by the County Detectives, According to Meagre Information Leaking Out.

Tha Sarah Wright the woman held prisoner for months in a house near the old foundry at Dawson was kidnapped from Pittsburgh while intoxicated or under the influence of drugs. That she is well connected in the Snook City and that several attempts have been made to secure her release but were some of the developments of today following the discovery of the body of an Italian supposed to be that of Tony Barile 23 years old in an abandoned well near the house he up to the murder having been given the officers by the woman. The case gives promise of being the most sensational in Fayette county by criminal annals in years.

The officers are not inclined to talk. County Detective John J. Smith has daily refused to discuss the case and has taken an indication that further evidence is to be unearthed. It was intimated today that Patsy Medio, who with the Wright woman is under arrest in Uniontown knows some thing of the murder of several Italians who were ambushed at Dawson about a year ago. The woman in the case is said to have told the officers of seeing Medio discuss the ambush while she was a prisoner.

According to meagre information that has been allowed to get out the killing of Barile occurred during a fight between him and Medio over the Wright woman while she was held prisoner at Dawson.

The arrest of the man and woman now in custody took place March 25 at State Police and Sheriff Owen Meegan went to Dawson it is said to arrest a man for carrying concealed weapons. While there he heard that a woman was being held prisoner. They raided the house and arrested the occupants and took them to jail. The day following the arrests the officers refused to talk concerning the case and it had dropped from sight until yesterday when the officers again visited the scene and found the decomposed body of the young Italian in the well.

The Wright woman is said to have been brought from Pittsburgh to Dawson last November according to one report while another said she came from New York. There is also current a rumor that her husband was slain. According to her story the officers she was closely confined in a room until her health began to fail. Then her captors placed her daily in charge of a neighbor Italian woman and she was allowed a little more freedom though never was she out of sight of the woman or one of the men.

A post mortem conducted last evening by Coroner H. Baum at Parkhill's undertaking rooms at Dawson showed that Barile had been shot in the head. The bullet entered the left ear and lodged in the opposite side of the head. The man's coat had been pulled over his face and he had been thrown head first into the well. The woman in the case is said to be comely. She is about 35 years old.

The total amount up to the present time of Liberty Bond subscriptions received by the women Liberty Loan workers of Conneltsville has been boosted to $45,500 by a generous subscription of $25,000 from State Treasurer H. M. Kephart.

The women will continue the drive for the remainder of the week.

Although Fayette county went over the top yesterday in subscribing its official allotment of $3,866,160, the figures announced last evening do not come up to the $250,000 daily average Liberty Loan managers set for this week's goal in order to reach the five million dollar mark by Saturday.

Liberty Loan Subscriptions Tuesday were almost $100,000 short of the daily goal and Monday's pledges were almost $100,000 short of the required figure. Managers last evening admitted that it would take some tail hustling for Fayette county to reach the five million dollar mark by Saturday.

Engine No. 1109 of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is strongly advertising the Liberty Loan. A large sign painted in bright letters hangs below the cab bearing the words, "Each Member of This Crew Owes Liberty Bonds, Do You?" There are also numerous other loan signs distributed over the engine.

All the persons in the city who have bought bonds are asked to attend the unfurling of the honor flag. The Liberty Loan committee wishes it plainly understood that the flag is not being awarded them. One member this morning said: "The flag belongs to the city and it is for the people who have done their part."

Those who have pledged themselves to purchase bonds are urged to go at once to the banks and make the first payment of five per cent. The official total of the city at the close of the banks last night was $723,250.

There had been some doubt as to whether the Baltimore & Ohio subscriptions would be credited to the Conneltsville division. The bond sales have reached a high total, although no announcement of the official figures have been made from the offices here. A letter received this morning stated the company would buy the bonds for its employees here.

The Liberty Loan committee today announced also that all townships and outlying sections in the Conneltsville district would be given honor days if the quota was attained.

The Boy Scouts who have won bars for medals awarded in the first or second loan drives by selling bonds in the present campaign are: Brown Hildegar, Wilson McClarn, Robert Carpenter, Frank Reynolds and Willard Herwick, all of Troop 4, and Edgar Enos of Troop 5.

Scouts winning medals in the present loan, who did not get one in either of the previous two drives, are: Frank Angle, Troop 1; Alfred Hyatt, Troop 2; Henry Snyder, Paul Lamberson, Troop 3; John Norton, William Young, Troop 4; John Bryte, Troop 5.

Caton of Gibbons Glade have been taken off the lists of those to go on Thursday, both being farmers. Nicola Jurgella of Vanderbilt has also been excused by the local board.

WHEN TO PLANT

Mother Nature is Very Much the Most Trustworthy Guide.

The home gardener who is not certain when he should plant his seeds may get more valuable information by watching the processes of Mother Nature, and "taking a tip" from her.

Garden specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture divide vegetables into two classes—"warm-temperature" and "cold-temperature" vegetables. When peach and plum trees are in blossom, the spring is time to sow in the open ground such seeds as lettuce, radish, parsley, beets, turnips, cabbage, carrots, peas, and onions. The wrinkled peas should not be planted until later, as they are more likely to rot in cool ground than are the smooth varieties. When the apple blossoms fall it is time to plant the heat-loving vegetables, such as cucumbers, beans, sweet corn, pumpkin, and squash. This is said to be an old but excellent rule.

"FAST COMPANY"—A five-part Bluebird attraction, featuring Franklyn Farnum, is being shown today. Lawrence Percival Van Huyler has developed into a mollycoddle as the result of his bringing up, although he protested strongly to his parents against the method. He is engaged to Alice Vandervelt, who finally leaves him for the more manly Richard Baraby, who tells her of his explorations and travels in foreign lands. In the ruins of an old building Percival finds a confession from the founder of the Van Huyler fortunes stating that he, the founder, was not a Dutch patriot, that his real name was Patrick John O'Malley, that he was born in Ireland, and that he had made his money through practical activities. Percival is delighted to learn that he is an Irishman, and starts on a round of fun that lands him in jail. When he is released he exposes Baraby, after discovering the volume from which he extracted all his discoveries and exploits, and eventually wins back Alice. Pictures of the Liberty Loan parade will also be shown. Thursday, "The Cross Bearer," a five-part World attraction, in which Montague Love appears in the most effective characterization in which he has yet been seen, is featured in the leading role. Friday and Saturday, Mabel Normand will be seen in "Dodging a Million," a Goldwyn attraction.

Fred and Eve Hurley are somewhat different and pleased every one. Hurley's dog act was a scream. The company carries all special scenery and the wardrobe is up to the minute. Its power to instantly relieve any irritation of the skin and make it soft, white and beautiful is almost miraculous.

The Confessions of a German Deserter

Written by a Prussian Officer Who Participated in the Ravaging and Pillaging of Belgium

Copyright by Detroit Free Press

The same evening we were transported in automobiles and on the evening of August 20, 1914, we reached our detachment, which was about 35 miles from the Belgian city of Neuve Chateau. The regiment to which I belonged did not take part in any operations after the fall of Liege, but was transported to this part of Belgium. Now I learn for the first time how heavy was the loss in my company in the Liege fighting. We lost 187 men in dead and wounded.

This night we slept in an open field. At five o'clock the next morning we marched again until four o'clock in the afternoon, when we were given a rest.

It was about ten o'clock in the evening when we received orders to advance. We were all ready to proceed when another order came for us to remain at our bivouac overnight. During the night we heard thundering of cannon which became more violent. The battle of Neuve Chateau, which had continued from August 22 to August 24, 1914, had begun.

At four o'clock on the morning of August 25 we resumed our march. At Neuve Chateau the French army had encountered the Fourth German army. First there was, as always, minor outpost and patrol fighting. By and by larger masses of troops participated, and as we took our part in the battle on the evening of August 25, the fight had developed into one of the most sanguinary of the world war.

When we arrived the French occupied almost three-quarters of the town. The artillery had set the main part of Neuve Chateau on fire and only the beautiful residence section in the western part of the city escaped at that time. All night long the house-to-house fighting continued, but when at noon of August 25 the city was in German hands the enormous cost to the Germans could finally be determined.

Residences, cellars, streets and sidewalks were heaped with dead and wounded. The houses were in ruins—empty shells, in which hardly anything remained undamaged that was of any real value. Thousands became beggars in one terrible night. Women and children, soldiers and citizens were lying where the pitiless shells and bullets had hurled them from life into death's dark void. True hospitality reigned in the killing. There was a Belgian woman lying next to a Belgian baby which she had borne from house to street. Close by lay a man of uncertain years before an enemy house. Both his legs were burned to the knees. His wife lay on his breast and sobbed so pitifully that her grief could not be endured. Most of the dead were entirely or partly burned. The cries of agony of the animals fighting incineration were joined with the groans and sobbing of the wounded.

But no one had time to bother with them. The French were making another stand outside the city in an open field. As the enemy vacated the town the Germans made an error which cost them hundreds of lives. They had occupied the entire town so quickly that the German artillery which shelled a part of the city did not know of the change in the situation and threw shells into the ranks of the infantry. Finally our soldiers were compelled to give up some of their gains by the pressure of our own as well as the French fire, but regained this ground afterwards. Strangely enough, the residence section previously mentioned had not suffered seriously. All the houses flew the Red Cross and were used as temporary hospitals.

Here it was reported that Belgians mutilated German soldiers. Whether this was true, or only a rumor, similar to others being constantly started by German soldiers, I cannot say, but I do know that on August 24, after the French had retired, it was made known through an army order that German soldiers had been found there, and that the German army could not leave the scene of these outrages without first avenging the victims.

It was ordered by the commander of the army to level the remainder of the city and to show to mercy. As we took a short rest from our pursuit of the enemy and looked backward clouds of smoke to the eastward showed that the order had been executed. A remaining battery of artillery had reduced the city to ashes.

The French had made a stand outside the city and resisted to the utmost, but they were outnumbered. It was simply impossible to resist the pressure of the German war machine. When the German columns, with fixed bayonets, advanced to the accompaniment of their blood-curdling yells which, like their steel, penetrated to the bone, they resembled in every respect American Indians going into action, flinging themselves with blood-curdling yells upon their enemies. After a three-hour fight many Frenchmen gave themselves up as prisoners. With uplifted hands they sought mercy.

At last, on the night of August 23 and 24, the enemy's tanks were thrown into confusion and they retired slowly. I was in the first detachment which pursued them. To the right and left of the road, in the field and ditches, were dead and wounded.

The red pantaloons of the French showed brightly on the ground. The dead gray of the Germans could hardly be discerned.

The distance between us and the retreating French became greater. Our soldiers became happier over the outcome of the battle and seemed to forget their past hardships. The corpses which littered the roads and ditches were because they considered us guests. They only asked that we should not hurt them. We paid them nevertheless for everything in German money. There, as everywhere else we went, we found the population in mortal terror of us. The people trembled whenever a German soldier entered their home.

CHAPTER IV.

Four of us had formed a close friendship. We had promised to keep together and help one another in every danger. So we often visited the homes of citizens together and did our best to quiet the harassed people we met and talk them out of fear of our forces. Without exception we found these people friendly and quick to feel confidence in us when they learned that we really were their friends. If we wrote on their doors with chalk, "Here live good, honest people, please spare them," their gratitude knew no bounds. If so much bad blood existed and if so many things which led to the military execution of innumerable Belgians, it was because of the mistrust systematically nourished on the part of the German officers.

That night we marched on after being joined by a 21-centimeter mortar battery of the foot artillery regiment No. 9 recently arrived. Not only were we to act as an auxiliary for this battery, but we were also expected to help bring these immense cannon into action. These guns were in two sections, each transported on a wagon pulled by six horses. These horses, the only ones used by foot artillery, are supposed to be the finest and most powerful in the German army.

Yet these animals were seldom up to expectations, so that it was a common thing to detail from 70 to 80 men to assist in transporting these mortars, and long heavy ropes were carried for this purpose. This happened most frequently whenever the guns had to be taken off a highway and brought into a firing position.

Soon we arrived at the city of Bertrix. We found many houses at the right and left of us burning brightly. They had been set afire, we learned, because persons in them had fired on passing soldiers. In front of one of these houses was a half-burned man and woman with their fifteen or sixteen-year-old sons. All were covered with straw. A little way farther on three more civilians were lying dead in the same street.

As we were marching we suddenly received an order to surround a certain house at the left of us. Our captain declared that a shot fired from that house had killed a soldier. None of us had heard anything, however. The house from which the shot was alleged to have been fired was soon surrounded and hand grenades thrown into it through the windows. In a minute all the rooms were aflame. The air pressure from the exploding grenades was so great that doors in the house flew from their hinges and the walls of several rooms were crushed.

Almost at the same time five civilians ran into the streets with raised hands. They were seized at once and led before the officers, who constituted themselves immediately into a court-martial. Ten minutes later sentence had been executed, and five men lay on the ground with eyes bandaged, riddled with bullets.

In each case six of our men were always called upon to execute one man's sentence. I am sorry to say that I was one of the thirty called upon at this occasion. The condemned man who it was our duty to shoot was about forty years old, tall and straight. He never blinked as the bandage was put on. He was led to the garden of the house near by and his back placed to the house. After our captain said to us that it was our duty to aim true and end the tragedy quickly, we took our positions six paces in front of the condemned man. The sergeant commanding us previously gave us instructions that we were to shoot the condemned men through the breast.

Now we formed into two rows, one behind the other. The order sounded to load and aim and we each put five cartridges into our rifles. "Prepare to fire"—the men in the first row knelt down and the second row took their places. Our guns were now held so that the barrels were forward and the bullets were hip high. "Aim!"—and slowly we aimed, holding our guns tightly with the butts against our shoulders and our fingers on the triggers.

The sergeant paused a half minute and then, ordered us to fire. I do not know to this day whether our victim died at once, nor was there ever an opportunity to learn how many of the six bullets found their mark. All day I went around like a man in a trance, reproaching myself bitterly for having acted the part of executioner. For a long time I could not bear to speak about it to my comrades, for I felt guilty, and yet what could we soldiers do other than execute the orders given us?

HOW THE WOUNDED SOLDIERS ARE CARED FOR ON FIRING LINES

A Series of Stations Provided for Treatment During Their Journey to the Base Hospital.

When a soldier is wounded in the trenches, emergency treatment is usually available not very far away in a dugout just back of the trench, that is, a suitable dressing, bandage or splint will be applied by the surgeon, usually one of the younger men and he will then leave the first line trenches by a communicating trench being carried on a stretcher if his wounds disable him. At a varying point in the rear say one to three miles back, he reaches a field hospital, the so-called advanced dressing station in the British army. This post is usually under canvas and situated at the farthest point which the ambulance can reach, horse-drawn for, motor, can reach with relative safety.

At this advanced dressing station the patient after inspection may be passed on without disturbing his dressing to the next station or the wound may be redressed if necessary. If he has a fracture requiring better immobilization or protection than it was possible to give at the first station it will be properly put up. Should he have some condition requiring immediate treatment such as dangerous hemorrhage, an operation may be performed. All cases except under conditions of extraordinary rush here receive the first prophylactic dose of antitetanus serum. He will also receive sufficient analgesic to make his journey to the next station comfortable and it has been found that the generous use of analgesic prior to operation has a marked effect in diminishing shock. If conditions allow he will also receive hot drinks or food or necessary stimulants. Occasionally the patient is in so desperate a condition that further transportation is inadvisable, and he remains at the advanced dressing station.

After leaving the advanced dressing station the patient is taken to the casualty clearing station, C. C. S. of the British army, H. O. S. of the French army. This station is a variable distance away, depending on the military conditions. With the realization that the patient's condition depends very largely on the promptness of treatment the tendency has been in both the British and French armies, to move these hospitals closer and closer to the lines.

NEW VICTOR RECORDS FOR MAY

Dear Music Lover.

"Each Stitch is a Thought of You, Dear"

So sings Henry Burr very delightfully on one of the most popular of the new Victor records for May. It's a mother singing while she sews for her soldier sons now fighting in France—a timely bit of wistfulness and courage that appeals to everyone. Hart's "A Little Bit of Sunshine" is a most happy plea to the home folks for messages and gifts to the boys "over there." No. 13458—75c

We have yet to find the man who didn't laugh and laugh heartily at Billy Murray's "K-K-K-Katy." It's one of the funniest skits in record form. Hart's "The Last Long Mile" is a gripping rousing marching song with vim and snap and typical American humor. Be sure to hear this record—it's one of the good things for May. No. 13455—75c

"Everybody's Crazy 'Bout the Dog-gone Blues" a Marion Harris jazz thing, is irresistible. It hasn't a grain of sense but is a guaranteed antidote for "the blues." Has a lively, gingery reverse, a Van and Schenck darkey song, "In the Land O' Yomo Yamo" No. 13443—75c Plan right now to hear these hits while they're brand new. We'll gladly play them for you at any time.

Yours very truly,

P. R. R. THROWS OPEN ITS VACANT LAND TO EMPLOYEES FOR GARDENS

Has 2,500 Acres Suitable for This Purpose; Will Supply Instructors to the Gardeners.

The utilizing of all available vacant land belonging to the Pennsylvania Railroad company for the cultivation of war gardens this spring and summer is strongly urged by Assistant General Manager R. L. O'Donnell, in a general notice sent to all employees of the company. Such tracts, situated off the right of way and suitable for agricultural purposes, will be thrown open to any employee desiring to till them, at nominal rentals for the season. For plots of one acre, the charge will be $1 and for smaller tracts the charge will not exceed 50 cents.

The general notice in directing attention to the long afternoons now available to many employees for gardening work says "It is for just such purposes as this that the daylight saving plan was inaugurated."

To encourage practical methods in planting and cultivation this year, a supply of garden primers has been obtained from the National War Garden Commission of Washington and each employee interested will be furnished with a copy of the manual. As the season progresses information on canning, drying and storing fruits and vegetables will also be furnished. Last year Pennsylvania railroad employees planted 1,200 gardens and raised crops of an estimated value of one-quarter of a million dollars. The company has a total of about 2,500 acres of land on all of its lines east of Pittsburgh and Buffalo which can be used for agricultural purposes. Every effort will be made to surpass last year's record.

In the general notice Assistant General Manager O'Donnell says: "All employees who are able to do so are urged to take advantage of this opportunity by cultivating a war garden this spring and summer, thus assisting our country in the production of food, and also aiding in a very essential manner to win the war. Employees taking this action will in addition be helping themselves in one of the best possible ways."

BURNED BY A COLD STOVE

In innumerable sections, many of them bent or warped, the mail-order house stove comes after weeks of waiting. The expectancy and unrest are forgotten temporarily while father proceeds to erect the new stove that will mean so much or so little to the home. Piece by piece it is unwrapped, wretched fitting is evident, one leg is missing and gradually the monument of junk assumes a sight that disgusts mother, amuses son and provokes father. It is but a stove in name that this octopus of the business world has thrust upon the unsophisticated victim. Even the wife and mother realizes quickly the value of the home merchant and her reprimand of the father who sought to save by buying through the "catalogue plan" but who virtually threw away the value of a good stove.

MORAL.—A home-purchased stove comes "ready to use," must burn and give satisfaction or the home dealer will make it right.

JOHN BAYARD, "ONLY DOES HIS BEST TO MAKE HIS COUNTRY SAFE"

By Virginia Frazier Boyle

JOHN BAYARD had a secret sorrow. He had gone to the woodcraft school all summer, had won his bronze and silver "Cs" and was one of the best swimmers and scouts among them; yet he was not a Scout. It would be a whole year before he would be old enough, and a year is a long time to eleven.

Scout Brother was inclined to be boastful, and John Bayard was filled with the ambition not only to excel him but every other Scout in Scout Brother's Troop, which was not a wise thing for a new Scout of eleven to do.

An illness followed and a serious operation. For a long time John Bayard couldn't listen to Scout Brother's stories, for he was in a hospital and a trained nurse sat beside him. When he was able to hear again, the tales were all about the Second Liberty Bonds that the Scouts had been asked to sell, and the honors which were to come to the boys who sold the greatest number.

John Bayard was envious, it was still ten months before he could be a real Scout, and besides he had that bandage about his head, and may be the Government wouldn't issue any Third Liberty Bonds, and he just wouldn't be in it, ever at all!

MOTHER comforted him and brought him hot milk every two hours to make him strong, and Daddy brought him the first Liberty Bond that was sold at the bank for his very own. But the glory of being a first purchaser paled before the report of sales brought in for the first day by Scout Brother.

On the morning of the second day, John Bayard asked permission to sell bonds himself in the lobby of the bank.

"But you're not strong enough to stand," said Mother.

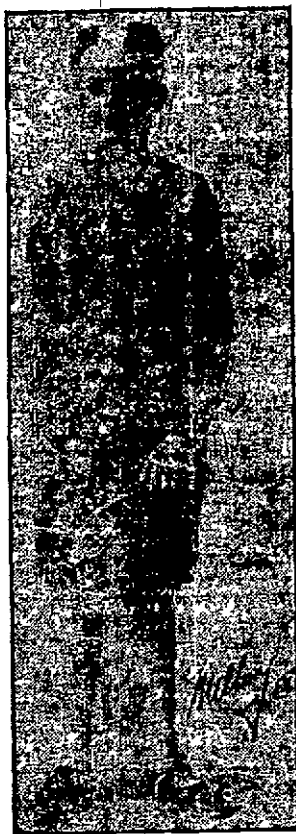

"Then I can sit down," John Bayard was positive.

"You can't wear your hat," said Daddy.

"But I can serve my country," said John Bayard.

A small table was set in the lobby for him and John Bayard spread his own American flag over it and stood beside it. The first man to pass was Mr. Jones, who knew Bayard and was inclined to joke.

"So you are selling Liberty Bonds, eh? Well, Bayard, how many do you think I ought to buy?"

John Bayard.

"As long as you're a rich man," was the quick reply. "I think you ought to trust your country Ten Thousand Dollars worth, for a start."

Mr. Jones hadn't thought exactly that way when he came up town that morning. He had been inclined to multiply the First Liberty Bonds by the Y M C A, the War Library, the Red Cross, and the various Allied Reliefs to which he had subscribed.

BUT of course he would trust his country for that much and more too, and he cleared his throat courageously and closed with the small wonder. Half a block down, he fell in with Mr. Black who was patriotic and earnest, but who just couldn't keep his fingers from sticking to his pockets (a habit not peculiarly his own). Slowly his friend led into the lobby of the bank.

"Buy a Liberty Bond!" piped Bayard's young voice.

"Ask the kid how many you should buy," suggested Jones.

The earnest eyes of the pale boy were looking into those of the disreputable man.

"I don't know what you've got, sir, but how much is it worth to you to call this country yours?"

Something woke, way inside of Black—something that was connected with his "Now I Lay Me" days, and he bought—bought as he never dreamed he would have done, even in his wildest moments.

"I'm coming back again this afternoon," he called across the table, "and maybe I can buy some more!"

HIS head felt queer and Bayard sat down. He wasn't strong enough to go after people like the other boys, and somehow, he was afraid nobody else would hear him cry his war.

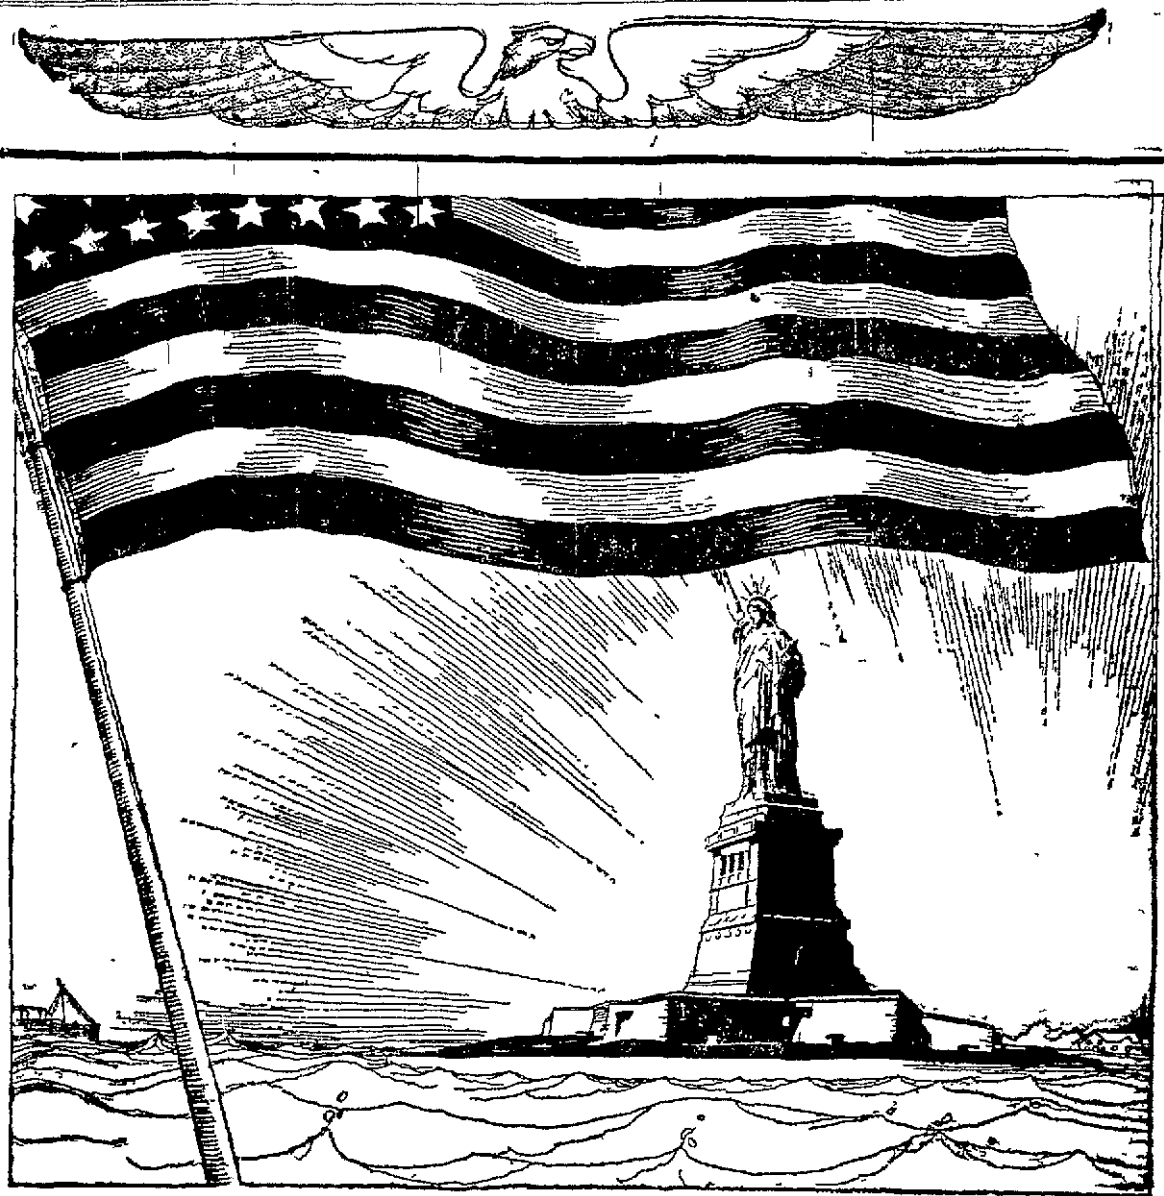

But they did and they found him, and for every man he had a reason why he should buy. When the drive was over, Scout Brother came in with a full sheet of sales, he had won his honor. Then they added up those John had made across his little flag covered table.

"One Million, Ten Thousand," the total read. Daddy rubbed his glasses and added up again. But John Bayard crept close and leaned his tired head against his mother's breast.

"I only did my best to make my country safe," he whispered modestly.

HAVE you done it? Have you done your best to make your country safe?

The performance of this boy is a real performance. He lives in Memphis, Tenn., and the amount of his subscriptions can be verified at the Bank of Commerce in Memphis. The names of the buyers mentioned are fictitious.

WHAT IS LIBERTY?

Do you think that you inherit liberty merely by being born, that it comes to you without effort just as you inherit eye-sight and your other natural possessions?

If so, you are making a great mistake.

Liberty is something that cannot be had for nothing. That is why it was said in the old days: "Eternal vigilance is the price of Liberty."

In these days

LIBERTY BONDS ARE THE PRICE OF LIBERTY

If you prefer American liberty to military autocracy, then you must do your share to see that it is not overcome and trodden under foot by the enemy.

If you cannot fight the enemy with gun and sword you can fight them with your money by buying LIBERTY BONDS so that America's brave soldiers will never lack anything that they need to help them to win the war and preserve Liberty.

Every LIBERTY BOND you buy is a blow struck in the cause of Liberty.

EVERY INSTINCT TELLS US WAR MUST GO ON

—KIPLING

Plea of English Writer to His Own People Is Applicable to All Americans

POET PAYS HIS OWN TOLL—THE LIFE OF HIS ONLY SON

Without an Allied Victory, He Declares, Earth Becomes Hell Without Hope

(Rudyard Kipling knew war. He knows world politics and relations. He knows Germany. And he has paid the toll—the life of his only son—defeat has. Because of these things what he has to say carries a message to us over here, of America too. It is true that "Nothing else under Heaven matters today except that the war shall go on to that end." There is no way of carrying it on unless we let America have the money to use for it. Kipling gives some straight, sound, reasons why the people of this country must buy Liberty Bonds—Editor.)

By RUDYARD KIPLING,

(In a Speech at Folkestone)

From time to time the representatives of the Allies meet together and lay down what the war aims of the Allies are. From time to time our statesmen repeat them. They all agree we are fighting for freedom and liberty, for the right of small States to exist, and for nations to decide for themselves how they are to be governed. All this we understand and perfectly believe. That is the large view of the situation. What is the personal aspect of the case for you and me?

We are fighting for our lives, the lives of every man, woman, and child here and everywhere else. We are fighting that we may not be herded into actual slavery such as the Germans have established by force of their arms in large parts of Europe. We are fighting against eighteen hours a day forced labor under the lash or at the point of the bayonet, with a dog's death and a dog's burial at the end of it. We are fighting that men, women, and children may not be tortured, burned, and mutilated in the public streets, as has happened in this town and in hundreds of others. And we will go on fighting till the men who have done these things are in no position to continue or repeat their offense.

No Half-way House 'Tween Victory and Defeat.

If for any reason whatever we fall short of victory—and there is no half-way house between victory and defeat—what happens to us? This Every relation, every understanding, every decency upon which civilization has been so anxiously built up will go—will be washed out, because it will have been proved unable to endure.

The whole idea of democracy—which at bottom is what the Hun fights against—will be discredited from men's minds, because it will have been shown incapable of maintaining itself against the Hun. It will die; and it will be discredited, together with every belief and practice that is based on it.

The Hun ideal, the Hun's root-notions of life, will take its place throughout the world. Under that dispensation man will become once more the natural prey, body and goods, of his better-armed neighbor. Women will be the mere instrument for continuing the breed, the vessel of man's lust and man's cruelty, and labor will become a thing to be knocked on the head if it dares to give trouble, and worked to death if it does not.

And from this order of life there will be no appeal no possibility of escape. This is what the Hun means when he says he intends to impose German KULTUR—which is the German religion—upon the world. This is precisely what the world has handed itself together to resist. It will take every ounce in us; it will try us out to the naked soul. Our trial will not be made less by the earnest advice and suggestions that we should accept some sort of compromise, which means defeat, put forward by Hun agents and confederates among us. They are busy in that direction already.

— Or Earth Becomes A Hell Without Hope.

But be sure of this: Nothing—nothing we may have to endure now will weigh our featherweight compared with what we shall most certainly have to suffer if for any cause we fall of victory.

The war must go on. The more we have suffered in this war, the more clearly do we see this necessity. Our hearts, our reason, every instinct in us that lifts us above the mere brute, show us that the war must go on. Otherwise earth becomes a hell without hope. The men, the ships, the munitions must go forward to the war, and behind them must come the money, without which nothing can move. Where our hearts are there must our treasure be also. There has been a great deal of money spent in England lately, several millions a day for the last twelve hundred days. That means that many people have had the chance of earning more money than they could have earned in peace times.

Our security for our loan is not only the whole of the British Empire, but also the whole of civilization, which has pooled its resources in men, money, and material to carry on this war to victory. Nothing else under Heaven matters today except that the war shall go on to that end.

To America Workers

OUR Republic now finds it necessary to ask Americans to contribute to another Liberty Loan. Our country is at war to maintain, to defend the basic principles upon which our free government is established.

Our country calls for service. Each and every man, woman, and child has a personal duty to perform—an obligation accompanying the opportunities freely accorded all. Some have offered and are giving their lives—others their abilities—but all can and should contribute money in accord with their means. It may mean savings—economics practiced in the spirit of patriotic and temporary sacrifices. And yet it is the safest investment in the whole world.

The need is acute—money is the sinews by which we "carry on" the war program. We must not—dare not fail, in an undertaking that means so much to all humanity.

Workers of America—you have as much if not more at stake than any other group of citizens. You are urged to subscribe as generously to this loan as is within your power.

Do all that you can for the common cause of democracy and freedom the world over.

For the Woman He Loves

"THE soldier fights not for himself but for the woman he loves—for her and for posterity."

Those are the words not of a sentimentalist, but of General Pershing. They are sent from the battle fields of France where General Pershing is directing American soldiers through valleys of death, as a message to the women here at home. General Pershing knows soldiers and he knows war. He knows what men fight for and what helps them while they are at it.

He believes that upon the women rests a tremendous responsibility in the carrying on of this war. And he warns them that the whole nation must carry on to the best of its ability if our soldiers are not to have fought in vain.

"Let those at home feel sure that the army has full confidence that nothing will be left undone which is necessary to be done," he tells us in a message given to Edward Marshall.

"As to our women, we know that they wield the most important influence on the preparatory work at home and upon the morale and spirit of our men abroad. They have been superb so far, and it is certain they will continue to be splendid."

We must participate in the world's fight for the preservation and advancement of civilization, and this appeals perhaps more strongly to women than to men.

"So the army's message to the women is that it is here for them. We say to each of them. Your fighting man has come to France to take his part in the great war, animated by the same impulses that make an American fight anywhere for the protection of womankind."

General Pershing gives a good deal to live up to. But every woman who buys a Liberty Bond right now is helping us to come up to what is expected of us and what we owe our defenders.

WALTER CAMP PUTS MEN IN CONDITION

Walter Camp, the Yale advisory coach and football authority, is a hard working member of Uncle Sam's training force in preparing the country's athletes for war. Camp is stationed at the government aviation school at the University of California, Berkeley, Cal., as an athletic instructor. They say he is of immense aid in putting the bodies of the young aviators in splendid form, which greatly increases their chances of coming unscathed through the severe tests required to make flyers capable of holding their own over the heads of foes in Europe.

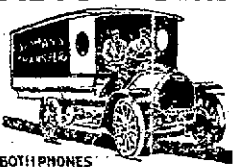

Despite the danger, there is a fascination about flying and a daring work that appeals to many American lads, who figure they can learn as well as aid the men now flying abroad, and see no reason why the feats of the past cannot be duplicated. Camp's long training at New Haven has fitted him well for the work he is doing.

IT IS GERMAN RUTHLESSNESS

Former Manager Doolin of Phillies Thunderstruck at Sale of Alexander to Cubs.

Charley Doolin, once manager of the Phillies and a man who did much to develop and bring out Grover Cleveland Alexander's great skill as a pitcher, calls his sale by William F. Baker to the Chicago Cubs little short of German ruthlessness. He is quoted as saying:

"I was thunderstruck when I read the news. Money can never replace wonders like Alexander and Killifer. Alexander was the greatest pitcher in the history of the game, and it is a matter of much personal pride to me that I was responsible for his development.

"Selling Alexander, in my mind, is something like the practice of the Germans in demolishing a cathedral or destroying priceless works of art."

"THAT'S TWO," SAYS G. LAND

Familiar Cry of Veteran American Association Backstop May Be Heard in War.

Some of these days that part of the American association contingent fighting with Uncle Sam's forces in France may be startled by a familiar old cry, one, mayhap, that will be heard despite the sound of bursting shell, roaring gun or flying shrapnel—"That's Two."

They will know that a second German has taken the count. Grover Land, familiar as a catcher and scrapper, has decided to carry the fight of his A. A. days to a real battlefield and will soon be seen fighting as a member of the coast artillery. The second batsman of an opposing team to be retired always was a signal for Land to raise his sonorous voice and let go "That's Two," so force of habit may bring forth the old diamond call when the ball player observes a second enemy take the count in the more serious game "over there." Land played with Toledo, St. Paul and Minneapolis in the Association and has seen service as a major leaguer with Cleveland and Pittsburgh. He jumped from the St. Paul club last season to Virginia, Minn.

IRON AND BLOOD.

Few people know that every courageous, red-blooded person, such as our own soldier-boys at the front, has within his body fifty grains of iron, or as much as is contained in an ordinary "tenpenny" nail. To be brave, courageous and active one must have good, red blood. Our men of iron are men with good blood, good circulation and an active liver. The poor, weak "slacker" who is not brave enough to go to war, is probably unfit because of thin, watery blood. It is easy to acquire strength and red-blooded corpulence by taking regular exercises in the outdoors, breathing exercises in the morning, and something to increase the appetite and the red-blooded corpulence.

The newest iron tonic is "Irontic" discovered by Dr. Pierce and his staff of physicians at the Surgical Institute, in Buffalo, N. Y. This "Irontic" tablet is a combination of soluble iron and herbal extracts, which is proving a wonderful success everywhere it can be obtained. Most druggists sell these "Irontic" tablets in sixty-cent vials.

Send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial pkg. "Irontic" tablets build up, strengthen, energize, and fill you full of vim, vigor and vitality.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested foods, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.
